To the Editor:

The data reported in Figure 1 of our recent publication “Factors affecting consistent audibility in pediatric hearing aid fitting” originated from Figures 1 and 2 of Seewald & Scollie’s article “Infants are not average adults: Implications for audiometric testing” which appeared in the 1999 October issue of the Hearing Journal (p.64-70). We should have acknowledged this fact and cited their paper. We apologize to the authors for the oversight.
